PINCHOT IN ITALY, GREETED ROOSEVELT; TALKS ALL THE NEWS

Friends Spend Their First
Two Hours Together Strolling in the Mountains.

WILL VISIT TOGETHER
FOR SEVERAL DAYS

Colonel Has Not Repudiated Taft
If Former Forester's Remarks
Are Understood.

PORTO MAURIZIO, Italy, April 11.—Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester of the United States, arrived unexpectedly in Porto Maurizio at midnight, and after a few hours' sleep at the Palazzo Hotel, went early this morning to the villa of Miss Carew, where he was given an enthusiastic greeting by Colonel Roosevelt.

"Hello, Gifford! Well, this is fine!" shouted the colonel, who had not expected to see Pinchot until much later in the day.

"Hello, Teddy," responded Pinchot, while the men were still several paces apart. And then they clasped like long-lost brothers. It was almost a case of falling into each other's arms.

Strolled Two Hours.

Pinchot was hustled inside the house, and the two reappeared in a few minutes and departed on a walking trip to the mountains. Their stroll lasted two hours, and if the same eagerness that marked their conversation at the start of the walk was maintained throughout, the situation was pretty thoroughly covered.

To the correspondents' questions, fired after the pair returned to the villa, there was an announcement of "nothing to give out."

It is fair to assume, however, that Pinchot made a full report to the President of what he believes to be Secretary Ballinger's attempt to undo Roosevelt's conservation policy and that the insurgent move that has developed in the Republican ranks under President Taft's Administration furnished a fruitful topic for discussion.

Taft Not Repudiated.

Pinchot left full remarks that indicated that Roosevelt had not yet repudiated Taft, as one of the correspondents recently attempted to give the impression.

He said that Roosevelt was surprised that he had received no personal message from Taft or from any member of Taft's official family. Roosevelt expressed to Pinchot his desire to hear the full story of the various controversies from the Administration's point of view.

Pinchot reiterated the statement that he came here to meet Roosevelt on his own initiative and that he would remain with Roosevelt for several days.

The ex-forester seemed to be in the best of spirits, especially after his walk with the colonel.

Signor Carretto, mayor of Porto Maurizio, today received the following cable from President Taft, in reply to a cable which the mayor sent Taft, expressing the pleasure of the people of Porto Maurizio at having Roosevelt as their guest:

Taft Cables Mayor.

"I received your courteous telegram announcing that ex-President Roosevelt arrived last night and was received enthusiastically by the whole population, and that you were proud to welcome him. In reply I beg to assure you and all your countrymen that the American people are very grateful for and greatly appreciate the reception which Italian officials, from your sovereign to the humblest subject, have accorded our most distinguished citizen."

The mayor sent a copy of Taft's reply to Roosevelt.

According to D. English, head of the Pittsburgh Civic League, from whom Roosevelt today received a letter, the present Pittsburgh light in reply to Taft had its inception in the reform movement which Roosevelt inaugurated while President. English says that Roosevelt inspired the betterment in Pittsburgh to an official house cleaning.

ULTIMATUM ISSUED BY AERO COMMITTEE

Tired of Delay, Washington and Baltimore Take Decisive Action.

RESOLUTION SENT TO NATIONAL CLUB

College Park Not a Candidate for Meet Unless Decision Is Reached.

"Resolved, That the Washington-Baltimore aviation committee withdraw as a candidate for the international aviation meet of 1910 unless the time and place be decided upon by the Aero Club of America within ten days from this date, and assurances be given by them of the participation of a sufficient number of foreign aviators to make the meet a success."

Tired by the repeated delays of the Aero Club of America to decide as to the place of holding the 1910 international aviation meet, the joint Washington and Baltimore aviation committee this morning unanimously adopted a resolution to the effect that College Park would be withdrawn from the competition unless a decision is made by the Aero Club within the next ten days.

The resolution passed unanimously. It was transmitted immediately by wire to the Aero Club. There is to be a meeting of the Aero Club in New York tomorrow, when, in all probability, the resolution will be acted upon.

Result Expected.

While the action of the committee will have the effect of bringing the matter to a head, as regards the probability of Washington and Baltimore securing the meet, it is not altogether certain that it will not have a favorable effect.

The opinion is held by not a few members of the committee that the resolution may be seized upon by the insurgent members of the Aero Club, who are hostile to the dilatory manner in which the Administration has developed in the Republican ranks under President Taft's Administration furnished a fruitful topic for discussion.

Reasons for Action.

It was largely on account of the announcement that Bishop was preparing to go abroad, and the statement, purporting to have come from him to the effect that the death of Thomas F. Walsh put College Park out of the running as a prospective site for the meet, that the Aero committee got together this morning and decided to issue an ultimatum to the Aero Club.

Charles J. Bell, president over the meeting, the Baltimore delegation included Col. Jerome H. Joyce, Harry Busick and J. Albert Hughes.

For Washington there were present, in addition to Mr. Bell, Prof. Willis L. Moore, Major G. O. Squires, General Al. M. Zahm, P. J. Stellwagen, Clarence P. Norment, William F. Gude, A. Lettwith Sinclair, Joseph Richardson, and Allen Cushman.

Mr. Bell would not go into the probable outcome of the committee's action, except to state that it might produce surprising results.

Political Aspect.

An altogether interesting political situation may grow out of the adoption of the resolution, as regards the Aero Club of America.

It is well known among members of the Washington Aero Club that President Bishop several months ago was considered a fervent to the joint Washington and Baltimore bid. Local aviators or enthusiasts, who are members of the Aero Club of America, were told to support Mr. Bishop in the recent election.

They did so. There was no question of the Aero Club at that time, but its members were thought to be hostile to Washington's interests.

Now, it is said, developments have proven President Bishop to be among the least friendly to Washington's interests of all the officials of the Aero Club.

The question is, Will the insurgents come over to the support of Washington in order to get new material to press their fight against Bishop?

The meeting of the joint committee was held behind closed doors, and lasted nearly two hours. It is understood that President Bishop came in for no little criticism for the statement which he is said to have made regarding the effect of Mr. Walsh's death on the chances of College Park.

It was stated that all of the money which has been subscribed for the meet will be forthcoming, including the $25,000 donation of Mr. Walsh.

Mr. Zahm, Mr. Moore and Major Squires were appointed a committee to draw up resolutions over the death of Mr. Walsh.

MOB OF WOMEN IN RAID
ON KOSHER MEAT SHOPS

Boycott Because of Prices Said to Have Spread to 750,000 Persons, and Police Are Called in to Protect Dealers.

NEW YORK, April 11.—With nearly every Kosher butcher's establishment in New York closed, and with the few still open operating with police on guard outside, the boycott of the women of the East Side, started unostentatiously a week ago, has grown beyond control.

The Hebrew Retail Kosher Butchers' Protective Association, which controls 90 per cent of the shops in the city, have agreed to keep their places closed until the packers reduce the prices.

The leaders of the movement estimated today that it is supported by fully 750,000 orthodox Jews.

Nathan Wolf, in the Bronx, and Ephraim Estrassman, on the lower East Side, whose proprietors determined to defy the boycott, were attacked today by mobs of women and the establishments were partly wrecked and the owners mobbed. The police made a dozen arrests.

A crowd of women formed in the east New York section of Brooklyn this afternoon and marched on the Pitkin market, where twenty Kosher butchers have stalls. They drove the butchers out and poured kerosene oil on the meat. The butchers tried to protect their stock and a free-for-all fight followed, which the police reserves quelled. No one was badly hurt.

Kosher boycott in force against the Chicago packers announced today after an increase in meat prices of 1 cent a pound affecting all kinds of meat.

GUN MEN OF TONGS SLEEPING ON ARMS ALL OVER COUNTRY

War Among Chinamen Will Spread Far and Wide, Declare Old-Timers.

CHU HEN IS HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Police Patrol New York Chinatown
in Vain Effort to Avert Trouble.

NEW YORK, April 11.—An undersized but powerfully built Chinaman, Chu Hen by name, was hustled into the Tombs court today, a short affidavit charging him with murder was found, a formal plea of not guilty was entered, and he was hustled back to a cell to await the action of the coroner and the grand jury.

During the whole proceedings he watched the rear of the room, where several Chinamen were gathered. They affected solemnity while a dozen uniformed police and more than that number in plain clothes watched them.

To the latter is due the fact that Chu Hen went to a cell and not a morgue, and when the Chinese spectators scattered they were followed by the police back to the triangle that lies just west of the Bowery, where most of New York's Chinamen gather.

But a Beginning.

The so-called Tong war is on in all its fury in the East. Yesterday's killings in New York and Philadelphia are to be followed by similar sudden deaths in many cities, according to the old-timers in Chinatown here.

The real cause no white man can learn. On the surface the affair is a feud between the Four Brothers, a Tong whose history goes back in China beyond the dawn of the Christian era, and the On Leong Tong. Each has marked the other's leaders for death and they will fight it out in their own way.

The nominal reason for the trouble was the killing of Bow Kum, the slave girl and the attempt of the On Leong to send two of the Four Brothers to the electric chair on perjured testimony.

Police on Guard.

Police Captain Enright and fifty men are on duty in Chinatown today, assisted by a score of Inspector Daly's detectives in plain clothes.

So far the assault of Chu Moy-Yen, the agent of the Great Northmen, who was the first man shot yesterday, has escaped capture. Moy-Yen, with three bullet holes in his thighs declares at the Hudson Street Hospital that he "don't know." As a matter of fact he does, and the "gun men" of the Four Brothers have their orders.

Moy-Yen was one of the big men in the Four Brothers, and vengeance will be swift and sure. He was shot because he walked through Mot street, thoroughfare reserved exclusively for the On Leongs.

Chu Hen, now in the Tombs, killed Chung Tuck, the On Leong's agent, and Chung was a direct reprisal by the Four Brothers because of the Moy-Yen shooting.

The third shooting was unfortunate from the tongue point of view. He was an innocent third party.

THREE NOW DEAD
IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—Jung Sing, twenty-nine years old, shot through the abdomen during last night's battle in the Race street colony, died at the Hahnemann Hospital early today, making those dead in this city three.

Sing was attacked in a grocery store by two Chinese, who entered and opened fire. Chu Mung, the proprietor, was shot through the head and body and instantly killed.

While these murders were taking place two men entered a Chinese restaurant on Race street, where they attacked a Chinese cook working in the kitchen. The first shot struck the man in the back of the head, and, pitching forward into the fire, his head was almost buried.

The men assassinated were members of the Four Brothers Society.

Lee Wong, fifty years old, and Lee Wong, sixty-eight years old, were held without bail today. Both names are believed to be fictitious. The elder Chinaman was captured in the restaurant with a smoking revolver in his hand.

Every Chinese found by the police in Chinatown after the murders was arrested, and this section today swarms with detectives. Every ferry and railroad station is being closely watched.

FALLS THIRTY FEET,
WOMAN WILL DIE

Drops From Third-Story
Porch When Rail Breaks.

By the breaking of a railing around a third-story porch in the rear of her home this morning, Mrs. Regie Spandaur, of 223 D street northwest, fell a distance of thirty feet, striking on her head on a cement walk in the roadway. She was taken to the Emergency Hospital, where it was said she had sustained a fracture at the base of the skull. The doctors say she will die.

Mrs. Spandaur was hanging clothes on a line running from a pulley when the accident occurred. As she leaned out to pull the line in she put her weight against the railing.

Screaming as she plunged through the air, she attracted the attention of other persons in the building, who rushed out and found her lying unconscious on the walk. She was taken to the hospital in an ambulance.

Mrs. Spandaur's husband, Samuel Spandaur, is in business at 927 D street.

BARONESS DE FORREST.

SEARCH CONTINUES FOR ELOPING PAIR

Favorite of British Court
Thought to Be Hiding in America.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 11.—Henri de Mercer and Col. George Boynton are in Chicago in search of Baroness de Forrest and Lieut. H. V. S. Ashton, of the Second Life Guards, of England, who eloped from the country seat of Baron de Forrest, near London, two months ago.

It is said to have been intimated by them that if the baroness consented to forsake Lieutenant Ashton her husband would be willing to receive her again.

The baroness was a favorite at the English court. An attempt was made to conceal the facts concerning the elopement, because of the prominence of the pair, but since the story was spread abroad it has been discussed openly. Diligent search was made on the Continent, but no trace of them could be found.

Colonel Boynton and de Mercer say they will ransack Chicago from top to bottom, and if their search is unsuccessful will continue their journey to California.

The baroness is twenty-nine years old, beautiful, and has the favor of King Edward and Queen Alexandra.

WATSEKA, Ill., April 11.—The jury in the Saylor murder case is still deadlocked. In spite of this Judge Dibell today declared he did not look for a disagreement.

Many rumors regarding the way the jury stands are current today. The first report was that the jury stood 7 to 5 for conviction of Dr. William Miller, on the first ballot. It was later reported that the jurors had reached a verdict regarding Miller, but could not agree on the guilt or innocence of Mrs. Lucy Saylor and John Grunden.

NO STRIKE ON N. Y. C., SAY MEN CONFERRING

Erdman Law Will Be Invoked If Wage Agreement
Cannot Be Reached.

NEW YORK, April 11.—When the final conference between the officials of the New York Central, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and the Order of Railway Conductors, was resumed today neither side would admit that a serious strike was imminent.

In the event the conferees fail to agree on a new wage scale, the Erdman law, which provides for arbitration, will probably be invoked.

Grand Master Garretson, of the conductors, and Grand Master Lee, of the trainmen, accompanied by the grievance committees of each branch, represented the 6,000 trainmen, while vice president and assistant general manager, Crawley, of the Central, represented the railroad.

The railroad officials offered the men increases aggregating about 10 per cent. The committee refused to accept these advances and the conferences were called off while the proposition was put to the men by a referendum vote.

The men rejected the offer, demanding the same increases granted by the Baltimore and Ohio recently. The alternative, as shown by the referendum, was a walkout.

This is the same action taken by the Baltimore and Ohio men, who appealed to the Department of Labor for arbitration, which was granted. It is believed the same action will be taken in the present situation.

NEWARK, N. J., April 11.—A man believed to be Garrett Logan, of 157 Court street, Boston, Mass., died last night in a Market street restaurant.

He had entered the restaurant and ordered something to eat. He waited at a table and while he waited was filling his order took a bottle of whiskey from his pocket.

"Have a little," he said to George O'Brien, who was sitting opposite of him. O'Brien took a drink from the bottle and the other man barely wetted his lips. A moment later he fell forward to the table dead.

The body was removed to Police's morgue, where it was found his skull had been crushed and that he was suffering from internal injuries.

WEDDING BELLS JANGLE
WITH CLANGING FIRE GONGS

Bridal Day Reveries of Miss Mary Winnifred Hyde Rudely Disturbed by a Blaze That Destroyed the Porch of Her Father's Home.

"Fire Bells vs. Wedding Bells, or the Narrow Escape of the Bride," might be the title of today's chapter in the life of Miss Mary Winnifred Hyde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hyde, of 1849 Summit place.

When Miss Hyde awoke this morning her mind was full of thoughts of her marriage to Dr. Ralph Everett Lee, set for 8 o'clock tonight. Sweet tones of wedding bells were ringing in her ears, when suddenly the harsh tones of fire bells clanged out. The smell of smoke came to the Hyde family from the direction of their front porch. Rushing out they found the railing in flames.

The bride-elect took one hasty look at the table whereon the wedding gifts were spread, then snatched up everything inflammable and fled quickly upstairs to protect her trousseau.

Meanwhile an alarm was turned in and after strenuous efforts on the part of the firemen and the masculine members of the Hyde family the flames were extinguished before they reached the interior of the house.

Some small damage was done by water, but the bride's trousseau was unharmed, although most of the house decorations were spoiled.

"We are a bit upset, but the wedding will come off on scheduled time," said Mr. Hyde. "Of course, we will not have everything as we wanted it, but we will make the best of it and be thankful the house was not entirely destroyed."

The fire started on the porch, just how nobody knows. The porch is covered with trailing vines—or was before most of them were burned. Mr. Hyde thinks it possible that the leaves were set on fire by accident.

Only the members of the Hyde and Lee families and a few intimate friends will attend the ceremony tonight. They are expected to make allowances for the condition of the house.

BIG TRUST CASES WILL BE REARGUED IN SUPREME COURT

Justices Said to Be Divided in Oil and Tobacco Suits.

WOULD HAVE POINTS
GONE OVER AGAIN

Date of Argument Open and Decision Not Expected Before Winter.

The Supreme Court today, through Chief Justice Fuller, ordered reargument of both the Tobacco trust case and the Standard Oil case.

No date was fixed for the argument of either case. Nor did the court assign any reason why it wanted the cases reargued. There is no doubt, however, that the court found itself so divided that it was deemed inexpedient and unwise to hand down a decision in either of these great suits.

It is generally believed that it will be impossible for either of the cases to be reargued before next October. At that time it is expected there will be a full bench of nine justices. Since the death of Justice Brewer there have not been but seven justices able for duty, as Justice Moody has not recovered from his long illness. He is expected to be able to return to the bench by the beginning of the October term, and it is also expected that President Taft will by that time have appointed a successor to Justice Brewer.

Attorneys Surprised.

The attorneys for the Government were greatly surprised at the announcement that the court would require reargument of the cases. They had expected decisions within a few weeks. President Taft, himself, has told callers recently that he had no idea the cases would have to be reargued.

While the court has given no reason for its action, it is generally believed that it found itself divided 4 to 4 on the Tobacco trust case, and 4 to 3 on the Standard Oil case. Each of these cases was argued to eight justices. Before Justice Taft's death, Justice Brewer is supposed to have voted on the Tobacco trust case, from the first that made the court stand evenly divided. It is not believed that Justice Brewer voted on the Standard Oil case, and it is supposed that with him removed from the bench, the court stands 4 to 3 on the Standard Oil case.

It has been recognized from the first that for the court to hand down an opinion without at least five of the justices being on one side would merely open the way to endless contention.

Decision Will Be Delayed.

Lawyers generally say that if the court is evenly divided, or approximately so, it is the part of wisdom to order reargument.

Senator Bailey, who was in the court room at the time of the announcement, was of the opinion that the court found itself nearly evenly divided. He thought under the circumstances that it was best to have the cases reargued.

The fact that the cases have gone over for further hearing before the court is expected to intensify the interest in them. It will also add interest to the question of who is to be appointed to succeed Justice Brewer. It is probable that the fate of these two cases rests upon the kind of a judge President Taft chooses to fill Justice Brewer's place.

It probably will be the middle of next winter before decisions in either of these cases will now be possible.

May Not Come Up This Year.

One of the possibilities is that either the tobacco case or the oil case will be reargued until December or January. In that case decisions will not be forthcoming until next spring. If the cases are taken up in the regular order on the docket, rearguments will not be had until December or January. In view of their importance, however, the court may advance them so as to hear them early in the October term.

Attorney General Wickham will soon confer with the Government special counsel and with the attorneys for the Standard Oil Company and the Tobacco trust as to the time which will be most satisfactory for reargument.

If President Taft delays appointing a new justice until next fall it will not be possible to reargue the cases until next December for the reason that the new justice will not sit on the bench until he has been confirmed.

A number of candidates for the Supreme Court vacancy who have participated in the tobacco case or the Standard Oil case in one way or another have been practically put out of the running to succeed Justice Brewer.

These include Solicitor General Bowler and Attorney General Wickham, and Judges Sanborn and Vandewater, all of whom have been mentioned for the position.

STOCKS INCREASE
